

Viola sororia

Woolly Blue Violet

Common in old fields and open woods. Deep, blue-purple flowers on quite short stems; entire plant is downy. Spreads pretty rampantly. Good as a groundcover under shrubs. Will grow in soils too dry for most violets.

Suggested companions: wild strawberry (Fragaria virginiana), wild geranium (Geranium maculatum) common cinquefoil (Potentilla simplex), early meadow rue (Thalictrum dioicum), Pennsylvania sedge (Carex pensylvanica), trillium (Trillium grandiflorum)
